LA FOLLETTE'S NAME IS ORDERED ON BALLOT

PLAN TO HOLD LA FOLLETTE'S NAME IN VOTE

Mandamus Action to be Started to Keep Senator in Presidential Primary

McADOO'S NAME FILED

Three Candidates for Presidential Preference Are Now in State Race

Attorneys representing Hiram Johnson campaign forces appeared to the Supreme Court late today to prevent the name of Robert M. LaFollette from going on the presidential ballot of March 18.

"NAME ORDERED ON"

Judge F. T. Lembke, in Mandamus action, granted a peremptory writ of mandamus against Secretary of State Thomas Hall, restraining the latter from refusing to certify the name of Robert M. LaFollette as a candidate for president in the North Dakota presidential primary of March 18. No opponent to the order asked by R. A. Kinzer appeared and no time was set for hearing.

Joseph Coghlin, attorney who represented Kinzer, said the legal ground on which the writ was asked was that the statute gives petitioners the right to place men on the ballot for whom they wish to express their preference, and that since LaFollette filed nothing there was nothing for him to withdraw.

R. A. Kinzer, LaFollette organization head said: "We are going right down the line and fight this out."

The time for closing of filings for places on the presidential primary ballot of March 18, nearest today with the atmosphere cleared except as to the name of Robert M. LaFollette. Whether or not his name will be withdrawn from the primary remained a question at noon today.

The candidates for president certain to go on the ballot for the presidential preference are: Calvin Coolidge and Hiram Johnson, Republicans; William G. McAdoo, Democrat. Secretary of State Hall, who returned to the city at 8 o'clock this morning, said at 11:30 o'clock that the matter of LaFollette's withdrawal was still in abeyance.

"Mr. Duffy (Hall's deputy) saw Attorney-General Shafer and he believes that inasmuch as LaFollette asked that his name be withdrawn, it should be, holding that no man can be forced into a candidacy against his will. We will try to act in a reasonable manner in this office."

Attorney-General Shafer said he had given no opinion in the matter, not having been formally requested for one, but that his view was that LaFollette could withdraw.

To Start Action

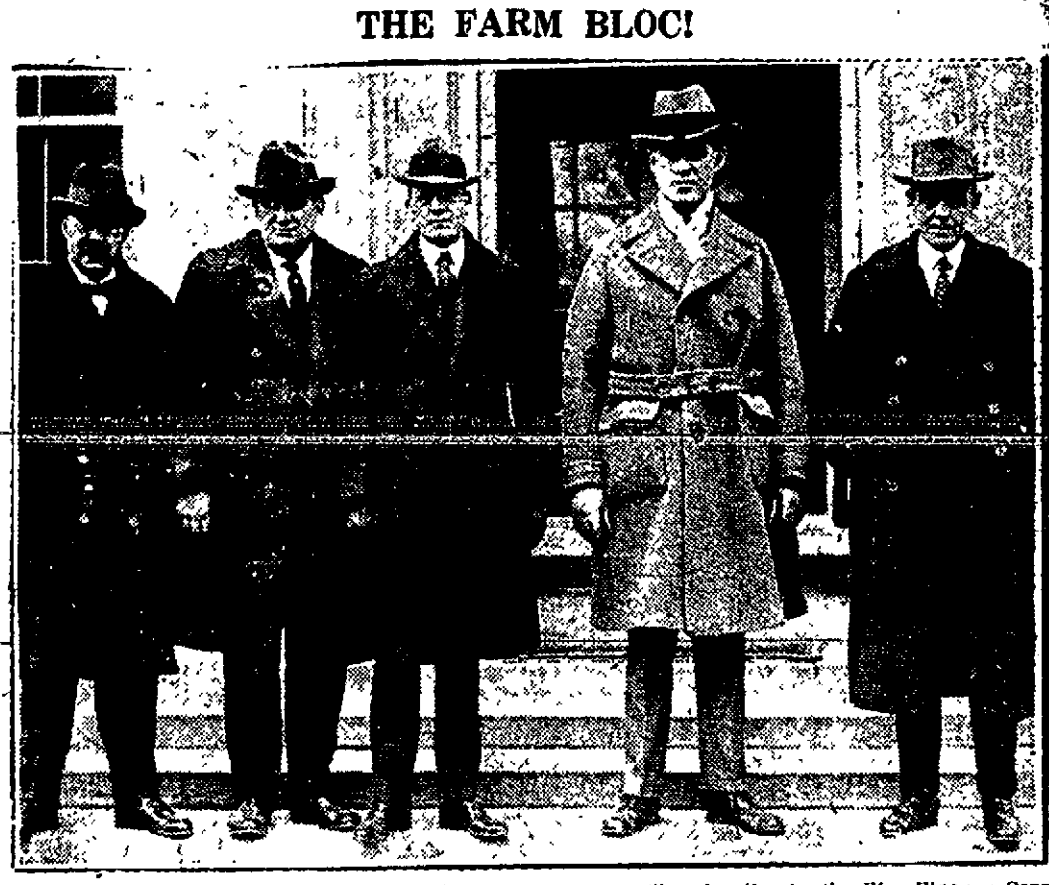

At the same time Joseph Coghlin, local attorney, said that an application would be made today for a writ of mandamus against the Secretary of State, demanding that he certify LaFollette's name on the ballot, based on an understanding that the Secretary of State would withdraw the name unless restrained. The action, he said, would be made by R. A. Kinzer, head of the LaFollette organization, and would be on the ground that presidential candidates have no discretion in the matter since they are not required to give assent to their candidacy.

Where the application will be made was uncertain. He said there was a district judge in the city. Clerk of Court G. J. Fisher said he understood Judge Jansons was at Carington and Judge Coffey, also of the fourth judicial district, was at Jamestown.

Election Laws Go On

The proposals to go on the ballot, according to Deputy Secretary of State Duffy, included: The three so-called "nonparty" election laws and the bank tax validating act of the last legislature, four Republican candidates for national committee—E. Berman, Barton Garrett, R. A. Kinzer and Usher L. Burdick; complete Coolidge, Johnson and LaFollette states of delegates to the Republican national election; two Democratic candidates for national committee—R. B. Murphy and H. H. Perry; two complete states of delegates to delegates to the Democratic national convention and presidential electors.

A report from Fargo that petitions were to be filed for Senator Oscar Underwood as a Democratic candidate for presidency found the Secretary of State's office without any advance information to this effect.

FIRE IN HAYNES MINE CHECKED; ONE SUSPECT IS PUT UNDER ARREST

Discharged Miner Held in Connection with Investigation of Startling of Blaze—Fire Retarded by Hard Work of Fire Fighters

The coal mine fire in the property of the Haynes Coal Mining Company at Haynes, Adams county, near the South Dakota line, which has been raging for several days, has been retarded by hard work of fire fighters of the company and the state mine inspector's force, according to Commissioner of Agriculture J. A. Kitchen, member of the state emergency commission, who returned this morning after an all night automobile ride.

Warp weather, which prevents a serious draft in the shaft of the mine which would fan the blaze, and use of water have checked the blaze, but more successful efforts are made the fire threatens to destroy the entire 17-foot vein of coal, the coal mine of the state of South Dakota adjoining and a North School section underlain with coal, he said.

One man suspected of having started the fire was placed under arrest, he said, and a hearing will be held in March. The man, he added, was a discharged coal miner of the Haynes company.

An appeal had been made for a $15,000 appropriation to fight the fire, $5,000 to come from the North Dakota emergency commission, $5,000 from the state of South Dakota and $5,000 from the Haynes company. The North Dakota emergency commission will meet today to decide its action. A representative of the state of South Dakota also was at Haynes to see the fire and returned to Pierre with a report, Kitchen said.

BAND PROPOSED AT DICKINSON

Dickinson, N. D., Mar. 1.—Dickinson board of governors of the old municipal band meeting this week, granted the request of Capt. H. L. Borquette of Company K, N. D. N. G., for the use of the instruments used by the old band in helping a new musical organization to function under the auspices and direction of the guard company. Whether a new band to be organized will be decided at a meeting of the company to be held during the next few days.

The board of governors, appointed by the city commission nearly two years ago to administer the affairs of the municipal band then functioning consists of Mrs. A. P. Nachtwey, Mrs. Margaret Stewart, W. H. Lennerville, William Katschke and N. F. Bartholme. Several valuable instruments used by the municipal band are in their control.

Should a band be organized by Company K, its membership will include many who played with the former organization as well as a wealth of new material to draw from. This blended together under the direction of a capable leader, will doubtless make a band that will serve the company to good advantage and in which the entire city may take pride.

FORBES PROBE TO BROADEN ON JURY'S REPORT

Evidence of Graft Uncovered Over Which Jury Lacked Any Jurisdiction

DIRECTOR IS INDICTED

Protests His Innocence to Many Charges of Fraud in Conducting Bureau

Chicago, March 1.—A further investigation into the transactions reported by the federal grand jury which returned indictments against Charles R. Forbes, former director of the United Veterans Bureau, to involve graft by government officers was indicated today by assurance from John W. Grim, special assistant to the Attorney-General in charge of the prosecution, that the matter would be laid before Attorney-General Daugherty and President Coolidge.

The grand jurors in their special report declared the transactions uncovered by them but not pursued for want of jurisdiction include payment of "of certain sums of money to members of Congress, speculation by one or more government officials where individuals for obtaining elements for prisoners and acceptance of money for obtaining through acquaintance with officials permits for intoxicating liquors."

John W. Thompson, named with Forbes in indictments charging bribery and conspiracy to defraud the government, surrendered last night to federal officials and was released under $10,000 bonds. Elwood Godwin, attorney for Thompson, indicated that Col. Forbes also probably will come to Chicago soon to surrender and give bond for the same amount.

Fraud Is Charged

Thompson protested his innocence of the charges preferred against him by the grand jury which yesterday returned four indictments against Forbes and himself. Two named the charges as bribery and conspiracy to defraud the government. One indictment naming Thompson individually charges him with indirectly giving a bribe of $5,000 to Forbes, and the separate indictment against Forbes charges him with accepting this alleged bribe.

The likelihood of further investigations of affairs of the Veterans Bureau under the former director was intimated at the office of Prosecutor Grim.

WILL SURRENDER

Washington, March 1.—Charles R. Forbes, director of the Veterans Bureau, declared in a statement he welcomed the indictments returned against him yesterday in Chicago. He said he looked upon them "with clear conscience" because they will permit me to present my case before a fair court of justice and a jury of my peers."

Forbes said he would interpose "no technical objection to a trial" but on the contrary would go to Chicago voluntarily "as the first step toward my complete vindication."

He characterized the accusations against him as "a hell-engendered conspiracy against my honor and integrity."

The former Veterans director added he was "not going to Florida" despite the fact that "other men now charged publicly with crimes against the government have been reported as hiding by the screen of ill health."

FARMERS LINE INCORPORATED

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the Secretary of State for the Youngtown Rosebud Telephone Company, a proposed farmer's line with 85 miles of poles costing $4,500 and connecting with the North Dakota Independent Telephone Company's exchange at New Salem. The capital stock is $5,000 and directors are Fred Tellman, Rosebud; Christ F. Gaebe, New Salem; Fred Kroeger, Youngtown.

DAIRY CATTLE RATE REDUCED

Freight rates on dairy cattle from all eastern terminals to North Dakota and Montana points will be reduced 25 percent by the Northern Pacific railway from April 15 to May 15, it is announced by officials of that road.

The reduction will be in the nature of an experiment for the purpose of aiding the farmers of this section to introduce dairy cattle on their farms, and to see how much business could be done at such a rate.

Max Morgan, dairy specialist of the Fairmont Creamery company of Fargo and Moorhead, has been active in urging Northern Pacific officials to reduce the rate.

NEW TAX BILL IN SENATE TO BE CONSIDERED

Republican Compromise Triumphs Over Democratic Rates in Lower House

SENATE TO HASTEN

Would Advance Consideration of Tax Bill as Rapidly as Possible

Washington, March 1.—The revenue measure arrived in the Senate today to start the second lap of its legislative journey.

The house, by a vote of 408 to eight, approved the bill yesterday after sending it through a last-minute cross-fire in which the Democratic income tax schedule was knocked out and a compromise offered by Representative Longworth, Republican leader, and supported by every member of the party present was substituted.

Members of the Senate finance committee have indicated a desire to hasten their consideration of the measure but have determined on no definite program. The house ways and means committee spent almost two months in framing the measure but in view of the exhaustive study the senate committee expects to require much less time. Two weeks were devoted by the house to consideration of the bill after it reached the floor. A longer period of floor discussion is looked for in the senate since the rules of that chamber do not permit restriction of debate.

The Longworth substitute, which was supported by Republican insurgents who previously had thrown their lot with the Democrats, provides for a normal tax reduction to two percent on incomes below $4,000, to five percent on incomes between $4,000 and $8,000 and to six percent above $8,000. It also would cut by one-fourth the present surtax rates, making the maximum 37 1/2 percent on incomes exceeding $200,000. No increase in existing personal tax exemptions would be allowed.

Cut This Year's Tax

The house also approved a proposal for a flat reduction of 25 percent on all personal income taxes payable this year. The unsuccessful efforts were made to eliminate this provision.

Specific rate changes carried in the bill will not become effective until tax payments are made next year on incomes and profits of 1924, except those made in the excise levies which would go into effect 30 days after enactment of the law.

In addition to the new income tax schedule, major provisions of the bill as approved today are:

Major Provisions

A 25 percent reduction in taxes on earned income, all incomes under $50,000 being defined as earned for purposes of this reduction.

Repeal or reduction of many of the miscellaneous or excise taxes, involving about $120,000,000 in revenue annually.

Tightening of the limitations of deductions which are estimated, will yield about $60,000,000 revenue annually.

Increases in the estate tax rates of about 38 percent.

Institution of a gift tax with the rates as carried in the estate tax.

Creation of a board tax appeals to decide tax disputes between the treasury and taxpayers.

Opening of the income tax returns to inspection by certain congressional committees.

House leaders admit that the bill undoubtedly will be altered in important particulars by the senate.

WOULD COMPEL SETTLEMENT

Washington, March 1.—Abolition of the railroad labor board and substitution of compulsory arbitration for railway labor disputes was proposed in a bill today by Senator Howell, Republican, Nebraska. It will be introduced in the house by Representative Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky.

BOYS GIVE ONE NICKEL TO AID PRES. COOLIDGE

Washington, March 1.—The Coolidge campaign fund was augmented today by one nickel. The sum in hard cash was received at the White House accompanied by this letter in a boyish scrawl from Central Falls, T. I.: "Dear President Coolidge: "In honor of you some boys of Central Falls have formed a club. It is called the Coolidge Club. As a beginning the club consists of five members. The ages range from 11 to 13. "Later we expect to have eight members. On the 19th day of February we held our first meeting. "Enclosed you will find as a token of respect the first nickel we received. The members of the club wish you luck in your presidential campaign."

SECRET CODE USE TO START NEW INQUIRY

William J. Burns, Head of Department of Justice Agents, to be Summoned

CARAWAYMAKESCHARGE

Washington, March 1.—The oil investigating situation today took another unexpected turn.

It was revealed that messages had been sent to E. B. McLean and his employees in Florida in a code once used by the Department of Justice.

One such message was sent by Mary Dockstein formerly secretary to William J. Burns and now one of the department secret agents.

It related to Burns and to "the McLean investigation," but Burns denied it in any way connected with the oil scandal. It was addressed to W. O. Dockstein, Mary Dockstein's husband and one of McLean's confidential employees.

Committee members announced they would subpoena Burns and Mrs. Dockstein and Senator Walsh demanded that the department's code be turned over to the committee. The demand at first was refused.

Washington, March 1.—William J. Burns, chief of the Department of Justice investigation bureau, will be summoned by the oil committee to explain whether code messages sent to E. B. McLean's employees in Florida were in cipher used by the Department's secret agents.

He also will be asked whether Mr. McLean himself is not himself carried on the books of the department as a secret agent at a nominal salary.

Mary Dockstein, who once was secretary to Mr. Burns and who now is on the department roll of secret agents, also will be called by the committee and asked whether she signed code messages sent to Florida over the signature of "Mary."

FAMOUS MINNEAPOLIS COLLECTOR GIVES TO NORTH DAKOTA MUSEUM

Contributions of ancient relics have been made to the North Dakota State Historical Society for incorporation in the museum in the new Liberty Memorial Building on the state capital grounds by T. B. Walker, of Minneapolis, owner of the famous Walker art galleries and collector of antiquities and rare specimens of ancient life. They were obtained by L. F. Crawford, curator of the state society, in a trip to the Twin Cities.

Glass coins used in the Holy Land during the period of the Roman occupation, a specimen of an alabaster cup in which was carried precious ointment and doubtless of the same pattern as the cup used by the sinful woman to anoint the Saviour's feet as told in the Biblical story, and a copper vase and statuette taken from the ruins of Pompeii and Herculaneum, cities destroyed in the eruption of Mount Vesuvius in 79 A. D., are the gifts of Mr. Walker.

Mr. Crawford also made arrangements to get a duplicate set of rare books from the State Historical Society of Minneapolis, the St. Paul Institute, the Minneapolis Academy of Science and the University of Minnesota without cost to the North Dakota society.

A rare collection of shells and mineral specimens also was obtained from the St. Paul Institute.

Washington, March 1.—Charles R. Forbes, director of the Veterans Bureau, declared in a statement he welcomed the indictments returned against him yesterday in Chicago.

He said he looked upon them "with clear conscience" because they will permit me to present my case before a fair court of justice and a jury of my peers."

Ford said he would interpose "no technical objection to a trial" but on the contrary would go to Chicago voluntarily "as the first step toward my complete vindication."

He characterized the accusations against him as "a hell-engendered conspiracy against my honor and integrity."

The former Veterans director added he was "not going to Florida" despite the fact that "other men now charged publicly with crimes against the government have been reported as hiding by the screen of ill health."

FARMERS LINE INCORPORATED

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the Secretary of State for the Youngtown Rosebud Telephone Company, a proposed farmer's line with 85 miles of poles costing $4,500 and connecting with the North Dakota Independent Telephone Company's exchange at New Salem. The capital stock is $5,000 and directors are Fred Tellman, Rosebud; Christ F. Gaebe, New Salem; Fred Kroeger, Youngtown.

DAIRY CATTLE RATE REDUCED

Freight rates on dairy cattle from all eastern terminals to North Dakota and Montana points will be reduced 25 percent by the Northern Pacific railway from April 15 to May 15, it is announced by officials of that road.

The reduction will be in the nature of an experiment for the purpose of aiding the farmers of this section to introduce dairy cattle on their farms, and to see how much advantage would be taken of such a rate.

Max Morgan, dairy specialist of the Fairmont Creamery company of Fargo and Moorhead, has been active in urging Northern Pacific officials to reduce the rate.

NEW TAX BILL IN SENATE TO BE CONSIDERED

Republican Compromise Triumphs Over Democratic Rates in Lower House

SENATE TO HASTEN

Would Advance Consideration of Tax Bill as Rapidly as Possible

Washington, March 1.—The revenue measure arrived in the Senate today to start the second lap of its legislative journey.

The house, by a vote of 408 to eight, approved the bill yesterday after sending it through a last-minute cross-fire in which the Democratic income tax schedule was knocked out and a compromise offered by Representative Longworth, Republican leader, and supported by every member of the party present was substituted.

Members of the Senate finance committee have indicated a desire to hasten their consideration of the measure but have determined on no definite program. The house ways and means committee spent almost two months in framing the measure but in view of the exhaustive study the Senate committee expects to require much less time. Two weeks were devoted by the house to consideration of the bill after it reached the floor. A longer period of floor discussion is looked for in the Senate since the rules of that chamber do not permit restriction of debate.

The Longworth substitute, which was supported by Republican insurgents who previously had thrown their lot with the Democrats, provides for a normal tax reduction to two percent on incomes below $4,000, to five percent on incomes between $4,000 and $8,000 and to six percent above $8,000. It also would cut by one-fourth the present surtax rates, making the maximum 37 1/2 percent on incomes exceeding $200,000. No increase in existing personal tax exemptions would be allowed.

Cut This Year's Tax

The house also approved a proposal for a flat reduction of 25 percent on all personal income, except those made in the excise levies which would go into effect 30 days after enactment of the law.

In addition to the new income tax schedule, major provisions of the bill as approved today are:

Major Provisions

A 25 percent reduction in taxes earned on income under $5,000 being defined as earned for purposes of this reduction.

Repeal or reduction of many of the miscellaneous or excise taxes, involving about $120,000,000 in revenue annually.

Tightening of the limitations of capital loss and gross income deductions, which it is estimated, will yield about $60,000,000 revenue annually.

Increases in the estate tax rates of about 38 percent.

Institution of a gift tax with rates as carried in the estate tax.

Creation of a board of appeals to decide tax disputes between the treasury and taxpayers.

Opening of the income tax returns to inspection by certain congressional committees.

House leaders admit that the bill undoubtedly is a specimen of an alabaster cup in which was carried precious ointment and doubtless of the same pattern as the cup used by the sinful woman to anoint the Saviour's feet.

BOYS GIVE ONE NICKEL TO AID PRES. COOLIDGE

Washington, March 1.—The Coolidge campaign fund was augmented today by one nickel. The sum in hard cash was received at the White House accompanied by this letter in a boyish scrawl from Central Falls, T. I.: "Dear President Coolidge: In honor of you some boys of Central Falls have formed a club. It is called the Coolidge Club. As a beginning the club consists of five members. The ages range from 11 to 13. "Later we expect to have eight members. On the 19th day of February we held our first meeting. "Enclosed you will find as a token of respect the first nickel we received. The members of the club wish you luck in your presidential campaign."

SECRET CODE USE TO START NEW INQUIRY

William J. Burns, Head of Department of Justice Agents, to be Summoned

CARAWAYMAKESCHARGE

Washington, March 1.—The oil investigating situation today took another unexpected turn.

It was revealed that messages had been sent to E. B. McLean and his employees in Florida in a code once used by the Department of Justice.

One such message was sent by Mary Dockstein formerly secretary to William J. Burns and now one of the department secret agents.

It related to Burns and to "the McLean investigation," but Burns denied it in any way connected with the oil scandal.

It was addressed to W. O. Dockstein, Mary Dockstein's husband and one of McLean's confidential employees.

Committee members announced they would subpoena Burns and Mrs. Dockstein and Senator Walsh demanded that the Department's code be turned over to the committee.

The demand at first was refused.

Washington, March 1.—William J. Burns, chief of the Department of Justice investigation bureau, will be summoned by the oil committee to explain whether code messages sent to E. B. McLean's employees in Florida were in cipher used by the Department's secret agents.

He also will be asked whether Mr. McLean himself is not himself carried on the books of the department as a secret agent at a nominal salary.

Mary Dockstein, who once was secretary to Mr. Burns and who now is on the department roll of secret agents, also will be called by the committee and asked whether she signed code messages sent to Florida over the signature of "Mary."

One of the code messages so signed and placed before the oil committee was addressed to W. O. Dockstein, one of McLean's confidential employees.

50 KILLED

New Brunswick, N. J., March 1.—A detonation of TNT in the main building of the Nixon Nitrate Works at Raritan shortly before noon wrecked the entire plant and destroyed nearby houses of 150 workmen and killed perhaps 30 persons and injured more than a hundred.

New Brunswick, N. J., Mar. 1.—(By the A. Newark, N. J., Mar. 1.—A terrific explosion occurred this morning at the Nixon Nitrate Works near New Brunswick shaking the territory for miles around. Wires were knocked down by the force of the blast. Ambulances have been sent from a number of cities.

Twenty-five small buildings at one time used by employees of the Nixon Works but which were unoccupied today were destroyed.

Fire which followed attacked two other buildings and the fire department from surrounding towns were rushed. Blazing sections of exploded buildings were scattered to all parts of the Nixon property so that fire soon became general.

At 1:30 o'clock fire was still raging in two large buildings but had been checked sufficiently to enable rescue workers to begin searching the demolished buildings.

HORSES CRUSH YOUNG FARMER, CAUSING DEATH

Arne Otnes of Hazen Dies in Local Hospital From Injuries Sustained

Arbit Otnes, aged 24 years, farmer living near Hazen, died in a local hospital this morning from injuries received when horses he was leading became frightened and trampled on him.

Otnes was brought here yesterday afternoon, and was in a critical condition. He had been injured on Thursday but could not be brought to a hospital here yesterday because of his condition.

Otnes was leading two horses, whom he had tied together because one of his arms had been injured and was in a sling. The horses became frightened and began milling around. Otnes was entangled in the reins, thrown to the ground and the horses trampled him. The cork of one of the horse's shoes penetrated his skull.

John and Joe Otnes, brothers, came here today and will take the body back to Hazen Monday for burial. Otnes was not married.

TURKEYS ARE BEST 'HOPPER' KILLER IN N. D.

MARCH 1 TO 8

NATIONAL CANNED FOODS WEEK

MARCH 1 TO 8

Average Turkey Eats Four to Six Bushels of Grasshoppers in a Year

FARMERS INTERVIEWED

Many Find Considerable Profit in the Raising of Turkeys in State

Editors Note.—This is the second of a series of three articles on turkey raising in North Dakota.

PART II
Grasshoppers with nerve enough to invade North Dakota farms are meeting a formidable adversary in Mr. Turkey and all his family. Farmers don't like hoppers but turkeys do. The average North Dakota turkey ate between 4 and 6 bushels of grasshoppers last year, according to an estimate by the state college of agriculture, given to the Northern Pacific Railway.

"We are fattening our turkeys on grasshoppers," smiled one farmer, "and we are getting the best prices on the birds. At the same time we are safeguarding future crops from the depredations of the insects."

Some farmers declare that even if turkeys could not be produced profitably for market, they would be worth while raising as a protection against the grasshoppers. Since they are both profitable on the market and insurance against the insects, the argument for raising them is doubly strong.

Another point North Dakota farmers emphasize in favor of the turkey is that it helps to eliminate farm waste and puts in available marketable form much of the seeds, grains, etc. which otherwise would be wasted in the fields. Mr. do this, the turkey flock does not browse in the immediate vicinity of the farmyard as chickens do but scours the fields far and wide. Unlimited range for turkeys is available in most localities of the state.

In Some Years Turkeys Beat Wheat
"My neighbors and I," my turkey flock in 1922 was better than a whole section of wheat," said Victor Hartl of New Rockford, N. D.

"I haven't sold all of my 1923 flock yet, so I cannot give any figures for last year. But in 1922 I sold 125 good turkeys for 45 cents a pound. My gross return from the flock was $3,000. After paying all expenses and buying some new stock of high quality I had $2,000 clear."

"Turkey raising beats grain farming a mile. When I put my flock in the field in 1919 I had nothing but a debt. In 1923 I raised between 100 and 125 turkeys. This year I am aiming at 400 which will raise from 42 hens and four toms. I always plan to have my birds average 15 pounds dressed weight, about the time the Thanksgiving market opens, and I do not always sell at the time."

A New Use for Turkeys
Three pyramid army tents have been brought into novel use by Mr. Hartl to provide shelter for his turkey flock. The tents are cheaper than wooden structures and are movable and consequently more sanitary and do not require space about the farm when not in use.

Mr. Hartl depends entirely upon turkey "mothers" for his flock and usually gives the young flock its freedom unless during unfavorable weather. Raw weather and after varied by the different grains, is his ration for turkeys. This is fed only when needed and when the birds can not secure sufficient feed by ranging.

He does not make any special effort to feed the newly hatched turkeys unless damp weather makes it necessary to keep them under cover. If the weather is good, the chicks must roam with their mothers and eat "Nature's food." The breeding stock is fed oats and vegetables with a sprinkling of corn in very cold weather but it is never permitted to get fat, and this insures stronger chicks.

From March 15 to May 10, Mr. Hartl's turkeys are kept in two pens, each having an area of about six acres. These pens are fenced with 26 inch woven wire. The turkeys do not make any strenuous attempt to escape because they have ample space, but to prevent them from flying out, one wing is clipped. The turkeys nest in these pens and closer attention can be given to them than if they were permitted to range promiscuously and nest where they liked.

The tent shelters are provided as a safeguard against adverse weather. They are set up in locations frequented by the turkeys, and for the first time or two, the broods are induced to enter by the planning of food inside. Each tent is 20 by 20 feet and provides ample space for a large number. During the hot weather water is always kept in the tents and if feed is scarce, a supply of grain is placed in each. The tents are frequently moved to clean ground. Mr. Hartl finds that the birds soon make their tents their home and use them at night and during storms and this has reduced his losses of chicks and "poulters."

Not All Easy Work
"I would not give anybody the impression that turkey raising is an easy and brings easy profits," said Mr. Hartl. "It has its ups and downs and the rainy days come, which may spell disaster if one is not prepared. For the benefit of anyone who may contemplate going into raising turkeys, I want to point out two mistakes I made. I overfed my young turkeys. I believe there is more danger in overfeeding the young chicks than in starving them. Another mistake was that I attempted to raise too many and made flat failures because I did not understand turkeys nor how to handle them.

Mr. Hartl exhibited one adult tom, one cockerel and one yearling hen, all Mammoth Bronze, at the All-American Turkey Show in Grand Forks. He won first prize on the adult tom and fourth prize on the cockerel. The cockerel was of medium early 1923 hatch and weighed 28 pounds on December 30, 1923.

Helps Husbands With Turkeys
"While my husband was farming a section of land, I was raising turkeys and I made more net profit out of my turkeys this year than he did out of his section of land," Mrs. Melvin Greenwood of route 1, Crystal, N. D., told a Northern Pacific representative.

"I raised 250 turkeys in 1923 and about 200 in 1922," she said. "I have not computed receipts from my 1923 flock but they will be more than in 1922 when I sold $750 worth of turkeys, and $350 was left."

"We have one girl in high school, and a girl and boy in school at home. The turkey flock is what is educating them. If it were not for the income we receive from our turkeys it would be impossible for us to give the children proper schooling."

The Lenten Season is the Spiritual Gymnasium, into which men and women enter to prepare themselves, by self examination, prayer, meditation, and rest of mind from the things that detract, for the race of life as set before them.

Each person needs the deep and peaceful sense of the presence of God. How can it be attained? By an honest examination of our inner life, our habits, our likes and dislikes, take forty days and throw upon this the light that comes from prayer and self denial, and Easter, April the 20th will be a far happier day than if we go right on crowding our day with the silly things that count so little in the making of man and womanhood, and the Life Eternal.

During Lent the Rector will deliver a series of Lenten sermons on the principal Actors, connected with our Lords Passion.

WHEAT TARIFF BOOST SEEN

Forecast at White House After Tariff Body Reports

Washington, March 1.—An increase in the tariff rates on wheat as a result of the tariff commission's investigation was forecast at the White House.

The commission's conclusions are understood to show a difference in the production cost of wheat in Canada and in the United States greater than is represented in the present duty of 30 cents a bushel.

The president expects to act promptly, in accordance with the report of the commission, under the flexible provisions of the tariff agent.

He probably will increase the duty to 45 cents, the maximum under the law.

The president's action under the law will take the form of a proclamation placing the new rates in effect. Inasmuch as the commission's inquiry covers wheat products proportional increases are expected to be made in the rates on these commodities.

"The Consumer's Opportunity"

National Canned Foods Week March 1st to 8th

Summer All the Year Round

That's what canned foods do for the consumer.

Canned foods are already prepared and can be served either hot or cold, without the necessity of cooking to make them palatable or digestible. Entertaining unexpected company, is thus, really a pleasure.

The can is never opened after sealing, until it reaches the kitchen of the housewife, miles away, but it opens up as fresh and tender as the day it was taken from the fields.

The American canned foods industry now leads the world in quality and production. The housewife may today serve an entire canned foods meal—the completeness of which our grand-mothers perhaps never dreamed of. Before the days of commercial canning, the variety was limited and the supply far from abundant. So remarkably, however, has the canning industry developed, that it is now possible to secure almost every fruit, vegetable, meat and fish, canned.

Buy canned foods from your dealer this week and convince yourself of their wholesomeness, economy and superior quality.

Take nothing but Fancy, Choice or Standard Grades.

Hackney, his wife, mortgagors, to Hackney Land Credit Company, a corporation of St. Paul, Minnesota, Mortgagee, dated the first day of November 1919 and filed for record in the office of the register of deeds of the County of Burleigh and state of North Dakota on the 12th day of November 1919 and recorded in Book "98" of Mortgages, on page 79, and assigned by said mortgagee to Thomas Howieson, by assignment dated Nov. 25th, 1919 and recorded in said office of the register of deeds on November 17th, 1920, in Book "155" of Assignments of Mortgages at page 215, will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises in such mortgage and hereinafter described at the front door of the Court House in the City of Bismarck, County of Burleigh, State of North Dakota, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon on the twenty-second day of March A. TURKEYS ARE BEST 'HOPPER' KILLER IN N. D.

Average Turkey Eats Four to Six Bushels of Grasshopper

FARMERS INTERVIEWED

Many Find Considerable Profit in the Raising of Turkeys in State

Editors Note.—This is the second of a series of three articles on turkey raising in North Dakota.

PART II

Grasshoppers with nerve enough to invade North Dakota farmers are meeting a formidable adversary in Mr. Turkey and all his family. Farmers do not like to see their turkeys do.

The average North Dakota turkey, between 4 and 6 bushels of grasshoppers last year, according to an estimate by the state college of agriculture, given to the Northern Pacific Railway.

"We are fattening our turkeys on grasshoppers," smiled one farmer, and we are getting the best price on the birds. At the same time we are safeguarding future crops from the depredations of the insects.

Some farmers declare that even if turkeys could not be produced profitably for market, they would be worth while raising as a protection against the grasshoppers. Since they are both profitable on the market and insurance against the insects, the argument for raising them is doubly strong.

Another point North Dakota farmers emphasize in favor of the turkey is that it helps to eliminate farm waste and puts in available marketable form much of the seeds, grains, etc. which otherwise would be wasted in the fields. We do this, the turkey flock, by eating the waste in the immediate vicinity of the farmyard as chickens do, but scours the fields far and wide. Unlimited range for turkeys is available in most localities of the state.

Many farmers interviewed by the Northern Pacific told stories of how they made use of the advantages for turkey raising which they discovered, yielded them handsome profits, with high percentage of return on original investment.

In Some Years Turkeys Beat Wheat "My neighbors," said my turkey flock in 1922 was better than a whole section of wheat," said Victor Hartl of New Rockford, N. D.

"I haven't sold all of my 1923 flock yet, so I cannot give any figures for last year. But in 1922 I sold 125 good breeders and the birds were sold commercially for 45 cents a pound. My gross return from the flock was $3,000. After paying all expenses and buying some new stock of high quality I had $2,000 clear.

"Turkey raising beats grain farming a mile. When I quit grain farming in 1919 I had nothing but debts. In 1923 I raised between 100 and 250 turkeys. This year I am aiming at 400 which I will raise on 40 acres and I can always plan to have my birds average 15 pounds dressed weight, about the time the Thanksgiving market opens, but I do not always sell at that time."

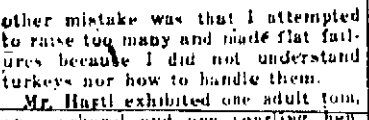

A New Use For Tents

Three pyramid army tents have been brought into novel use by Mr. Hartl to provide shelter for his turkey flock. The tents are made of canvas and are very movable and can be moved to any place and do not require space about the farm when not in use.

Mr. Hartl depends entirely upon turkey "mothers" for his flock and usually gives the young flock its freedom unless during unfavorable weather. Raw potatoes and alfalfa, varied by the different grains, is his ration for turkeys. This is fed in small quantities and the birds can be secured sufficient feed by ranging.

He does not make any special effort to feed the newly-hatched turkeys unless damp weather makes it necessary to keep them under cover. If the weather is good, the chickens must roam with their mothers and eat "Nature's food." The breeding stock is fed oats and vegetables with a sprinkling of corn in very cold weather, but is never permitted to eat fat, and this insures stronger chicks.

From March 15 to May 10, Mr. Hartl's turkeys are kept in two pens, each having an area of about six acres. These pens are fenced with 26 inch woven wire. The turkeys do not make any strenuous attempt to escape because they have ample space, but to prevent them from being caught in the wire is clipped. The turkey nest in these pens and closer attention can be given to them than if they were permitted to range promiscuously and nest where they liked.

other mistake was that I attempted to raise too many and made flat failures because I did not understand turkeys nor how to handle them. Mr. Hartl exhibited one adult tom, one cockerel and one yearling hen, all Mammoth Bronze, at the All-American Turkey Show in Grand Forks. He won first prize on the adult tom and fourth prize on the cockerel. The cockerel was of medium early 1923 hatch and weighed 28 pounds on December 20, 1923.

Helpful Husbands With Turkeys "While my husband was farming a section of land, I was raising turkeys and I made more net profit out of my turkeys this year than he did out of his section of land. Mrs. Melvin Greenwood of route 1, Crystal, N. D., told a Northern Pacific representative.

"I raised 250 turkeys in 1923 and about 200 in 1922," she said. "I have not computed receipts from my 1923 flock but they will be more than in 1922 when I sold $750 worth of turkeys and had $250 worth left."

"We have one girl in high school, and a girl and boy in school at home. The turkey flock is what is educating them. If it were not for the income we receive from our turkeys it would be impossible for us to give the children proper schooling."

"The Consumer's Opportunity"

National Canned Foods Week

March 1st to 8th

Summer All the Year Round

That's what canned foods do for the consumer.

Canned foods are already prepared and can be served either hot or cold, without the necessity of cooking to make them palatable or digestible. Entertaining unexpected company, is thus, really a pleasure.

The can is never opened after sealing, until it reaches the kitchen of the housewife, miles away, but it opens up as fresh and tender as the day it was taken from the fields.

The American canned-foods industry now leads the world in quality and production. The housewife may today serve an entire canned foods meal—the completeness of which our grandmothers perhaps never dreamed of. Before the days of commercial canning, the variety was limited and the supply far from abundant. So remarkably, however, has the canning industry developed, that it is now possible to secure almost every fruit, vegetable, meat and fish, canned.

Buy canned foods from your dealer this week and convince yourself of their wholesomeness, economy and superior quality.

Take nothing but Fancy, Choice or Standard Grades.

WHEAT TARIFF BOOST SEEN

Forecast at White House After Tariff Body Reports

Washington, March 1.—An increase in the tariff rates on wheat as a result of the tariff commission's investigation was forecast at the White House.

The commission's conclusions are understood to show a difference in the production cost of wheat in Canada and in the United States greater than is represented in the present duty of 30 cents a bushel.

The president expects to act promptly, in accordance with the report of the commission, under the flexible provisions of the tariff act.

He probably will increase the duty to 45 cents, the maximum under the law.

The president's action under the law will take the form of a proclamation placing the new rates in effect. Inasmuch as the commission's inquiry covers wheat products proportionally increases are expected to be made in the rates on these commodities.

Washington, March 1. John J. Spurgeon, managing editor of the Washington Post, was the first of the employees of E. B. McLean called for questioning about the private wire the publisher had installed between his office here and Palm Beach.

Spurgeon could throw little light on the matter, telling the committee he had nothing to do with the installation of the wire and had no information on the subject.

D. 1924, to satisfy the amount due upon such mortgage on the day of sale.

Default consists in the failure of the mortgagors to pay taxes on the premises for the years 1919-1920-1921 and 1922, which taxes the assignee of the mortgage paid on Oct. 18th, 1923 in the amount of $249.36; also default in the failure to pay annual interest coupons due Nov. 1st, 1922 and 1923, respectively, in the amount of $96.00 each, by reason of which defaults the assignee of the mortgage has elected to and does declare the entire mortgage indebtedness due and payable.

The premises described in such mortgage and which will be sold to satisfy the same are described as the Southeast Quarter (SE 1/4) of Section Twenty-seven (27) in Township One Hundred Forty-two (142) North, Range Seventy-five (75) West of the 5th P. THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

AN EFFECTIVE METHOD
The late J. G. Gunderson's proposed plan for a flat reduction of taxes by flat of law 35 per cent over the previous year has been much misunderstood and much abused. Mr. Gunderson, a keen business man and devoted to the state's welfare, never evolved or entertained a plan which he believed would stunt the growth and development of North Dakota institutions. This is made plain in an explanation by Vice-President A. L. Martin of the state taxpayers' association.

Mr. Gunderson believed that tax reduction must come. Many shared his belief, but did not know how to engage the public interest. Mr. Gunderson found the way by proposing a flat decrease so drastic as to attract comment and engage public discussion. He explained to the North Dakota Education Association here last fall that it was not intended to wreck the schools—his purpose was to pave the way for a searching inquiry into the possibilities of curtailment of unnecessary expense. As Mr. Martin now explains, Mr. Gunderson's idea was to enact a law which would provide a drastic cut but which would give the people an opportunity to increase the taxes beyond this limit by vote. This idea is incorporated in the present tax limitation law. It has the virtue of concentrating public attention upon the public financial problems and of restraining prodigal officials. Each time a tax limitation law has been enacted it has been predicted that it would wreck institutions, but they have not been wrecked.

The report of the state department and the old report of a survey made of North Dakota educational institutions under the direction of the Commissioner of Education of the United States lends strength to belief in the far-sightedness of Mr. Gunderson and the seriousness of the problems confronting the state.

It is shown that 43.74 cents of each dollar of state taxes collected goes to payment of an expense which did not exist prior to 1919. Of this 15.21 cents is applied on payment of state industrial bonds and 1.36 cents to the home building a deficit fund. To those persons who assert that North Dakota's experiments into the realms of government in business are not costly these figures are presented. One-sixth of the total state taxes thus goes to meeting interest on bonds issued for these new activities, and in future years when it is necessary to levy taxes to meet the principal of the bonds maturing the tax will be increased. It may be noted that under the "New Day" these industrial institutions were expected not only to yield a profit which would meet the interest on the bonds, but to pay the principal of the bonds and fill the state treasury with additional profits.

The federal investigators of our higher institutions of learning found much duplication. They found normal schools and universities teaching high school subjects, at great expense to the state and to the students who had better remained in their home towns to complete their high school education. Two engineering schools, it was found, are maintained in a state essentially agricultural. The investigators found duplication in other branches of our higher institutions of learning.

The educator who would supinely yield to public sentiment and see his institutions destroyed is not faithful to his task; but the educator who would seek to impose unnecessary scholastic burdens on a state is both blind to his true mission and forgetful of his state's welfare.

MODERN LIFE IS A LEMON SQUEEZER
The Twentieth Century Limited "burns up" an engine every 135 miles. That's all the "Century" can get out of a locomotive. After being speeded to the limit for 135 miles the engine is exhausted and the train has to stop while a fresh engine is hooked on. The worn-out locomotive is left behind for repairs.

This is a very clear-cut picture of modern life and the way it "wears out" all of us.
Our generation is almost insane in its desire for speed. At every turn the average man encounters people or situations or system existing for the sole purpose of speeding him up. In other words, the desire and purpose is to "burn him out" as fast as possible. Well, maybe that's not the desire. But it's the net result of the system.

Modern life is like the Twentieth Century Limited. Of course, 100 years from now it will not make any difference whether the passengers arrived at destination ahead of time or a week behind it. But we're living now, not 100 years hence, and so we're all victims of the system.

Business is a lemon squeezer. Get the juice, get it fast, then throw the remains of the lemon away and reach for a new lemon.

This system of taking a man and burning him up quickly is as bad for his employer as for the man himself, because the available supply of men worth burning up is limited, the same as there is a limited supply of engines capable of hauling the Twentieth Century.

Wise employers, men with perspective, realize this.

FIRST ADVERTISERS
The newspapers of Abraham Lincoln's day were small, usually four pages. They had very little advertising. Ask grandpa. He'll recall that old-time advertising was limited to classified ads. And most of these were the publicity of patent medicine firms or companies that had unusual services or devices for sale.

It took real courage by A. T. Stewart when he began running 10-line ads about bargains in his New York store, for advertising was a new device.

John Wanamaker bought Stewart out and "plunged" by inventing modern department store advertising.

This was a page in history. For, after all, the history of business is the history of America.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are printed here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

THE PRESIDENT APPEALS TO THE PEOPLE

President Coolidge is trying to save the people from themselves. He appeals to them not to force their representatives in Congress to vote for huge appropriations which would crack the country's prosperity.

Here is Congress, threatening to sink the Administration's revenue bill and to substitute a bill which not only would keep capital in tax-exempt securities but would create a treasury deficit of $300,000,000. And at the same time here are a series of appropriation bills which if they all pass, would increase the government's expenses by half a billion dollars a year and would force a tax increase instead of a tax reduction.

The absurdity of such appropriations is lined with the absurdity of the ramshackle tax bill which is being hammered together by the anti-Administration forces. The bill would put a premium on idle wealth and would defer the use of productive wealth. It would encourage initiative and tend still further to rob industry of necessary capital.

It does not adopt the Mellon plan for the repeal of various business taxes. Whereas Mr. Mellon, for example, advocates the repeal of all taxes on admissions, this hedge-fund bill merely repeals the tax on admission up to 50 cents, thus favoring owners of movie theaters, few of which charge more than a half dollar.

And in the case of cigarettes the bill actually increases the excise. At present the tax is outrageously high, being 3 cents on a package of 10 cigarettes. The bill would raise this tax to 4 cents.

Despite this nuisance attitude on nuisance taxes, the catchwork bill would create a $300,000,000 deficit. And yet members of Congress have presented a series of appropriation bills which would add to the annual expense of the government as much as the total annual expense before the war, exclusive of the costs of the Post-office Department, whose expenses are offset by revenue from postage.

President Coolidge knows that these bills have been presented not because members of Congress favor such huge expenditures, but because most of the members are yielding to pressure from various groups in their constituencies. The President knows, for example, that most of the men in Congress do not believe in a soldiers' bonus bill, either right or expedient. He knows that though a few of the members in their hunt for votes, have been hurrying for a bonus bill ever since the war, the majority of the bonus advocates in Congress are being reluctantly pushed into their present position. The bonus bill, although it is the want of them all, is only one of the unnecessary appropriation measures which have been introduced. The President realizes that the enactment of this series of bills would wreck the budget system, which was established in order to prevent unnecessary appropriations. The President believes that the passage of the $5,000,000,000 bonus bill and of other tax-eating measures would compel Congress to increase the deficit, thus such an increase would involve the country in an economic disaster. Accordingly the President of the United States calls upon the people of the United States to refrain from urging their Senators and Congressmen to vote for needless appropriations which are being advocated by various groups. The President calls upon the people to urge their Senators and Congressmen to vigorously oppose such class legislation.—Chicago League of Commerce.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

Ashland, Ohio,
Feb. 26, 1924.

Editor Tribune:
I am leaving for the Northwest in a few days. While my vote at the coming primaries may not change the result I am anxious to get back to do my bit toward securing the nomination of Calvin Coolidge for reelection to President. I think Henry Ford is right when he said: "The country is safe in his hands."

I would resent being called a pessimist but I tremble to think of our country being turned over to a bunch of radicals that seems to have light of our essential elements that constitute good government, that seem to rate self aggrandizement above the perpetuity of our beloved country. Unless a halt is called in the near future and the course of empire changed the labors of the Fathers of the Republic will have been in vain and future generations will reap fruits little to their liking. Every true American says: "Hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may"; but as the Cleveland Plain Dealer—a Democrat—says, editorially, the oil scandal is a party question, not a national one, and that every true statesman should forget party in the interest of good government. A truly sensible suggestion! I hope that each and every voter in North Dakota will pause and become a true statesman instead of a follower of some "Pee-nut" politician. Should such a course be followed we will all, without exception, be proud of the great state in which we live. Should such a thing happen the world will change its opinion of our fair state and quit giving expression to very uncomplimentary remarks regarding us.

While I have not had the opportunity of giving that initiated measure, the Farm Labor Lien Law, a close-up study, from this distance it has the appearance of being a very doubtful enactment and one that may be sorely regretted if it becomes a law. I think the cure will be worse than the disease. It cannot but have the effect of seriously impairing the credit of the farmer and prevent him from securing advances when he may most need them. Whatever the result of the vote on this measure may be, when counted, I trust that it will manifest to the world a wisdom that will rebound to our credit and will not be to your disadvantage as a state.

Respectfully yours,

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Into the drain chased Paddyfoot Pur with the Twins on his back. Paddyfoot Pur was the big cat belonging to the king and queen of Beanstalk Land. He had suddenly spied a mouse when he was giving Nancy and Nick a ride.

"Oh!" cried Nancy. "It's as dark as pitch! Where are we going?" But Paddyfoot was too busy running to answer. On they flew, on and on, and all they could hear was the squealing of the poor mouse just a jump or two ahead.

But suddenly some water came rushing through the drain and Paddyfoot had to swim hard to keep himself from drowning.

"Ugh! I hate water," he cried, paddling for dear life. "I wish I'd never seen that mouse. I shall go back at once. Drains were never made for aristocrats like me. I'll go back and get the herring the cook left for me."

So saying, he turned and was swimming back to dry land and daylight, when another rush of water came swishing by and washed Nancy and Nick off his back.

"I don't know what would have happened had they not had the magic green shoes which had helped them climb to Beanstalk Land. But as it was, they swam around and around and around in the dark, shouting for somebody to save them."

Presently they heard a splashing nearby, and a strange voice asking: "Who are you? And where are you going?"

"We're Nancy and Nick, the Twins," called Nick. "Please save us."
"You are not cats, are you?" came the voice again.

"No, we're a girl and a boy. Do please come and get us and take us out of here," begged Nancy.

"People!" exclaimed the voice again. "They are worse than cats. No, no, I can't save you. I am Longtail, the mouse. People step on you. I don't dare to let you out."

"But we're so little, we couldn't hurt you," said Nick. "We aren't half as big as one of Paddyfoot's paws. You are a hundred times bigger than we are."

"Well, I declare!" said Longtail in surprise. "Then I'll save you. It's very dark and I can't see you, but when I wish my tail around, catch hold of it and climb up on my back and I'll take you out of the drain and show you where there is some lovely cheese."

So he wished his long tail around and the Twins caught hold of it and climbed up on the mouse's back. It all happened in a second.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN
PRESBOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON

DEAR SYD:
This has been the most devastating and hectic week I have ever spent in my life. I have never thought it could be possible that an average ordinary man—who at least does not think himself a double-dyed villain—could have as much worry and trouble over peculiarly personal affairs as I have lately.

I sent you the newspaper clippings on the billboard affair. Could anything have been more unfortunate? By what malignant fate the Acme company just at this time should get into a row with the billboard company beats me.

Of course, as usual, I had to be the goat. I did not dream that the particular billboard outside my apartment would have, the very day I complained of it, Paula Perier's name slapped across it in black letters.

Bill Gregory came to me and told me he thought I had been very foolish to make such an exhibition of myself over the sight of my old girl's name outside my window, and when I explained matters to him he laughed until I could have choked him easily and looked upon his grinning face turning black, with joy.

I wrote a letter to Paula—because I knew that if I did not she would probably come to my office—and told her I would not be able to see her while she was in town. She would not have it that way at all. She sent me a very compromising telegram saying she must see me.

Then, Syd, I capitulated, swallowed my pride and called up the only woman that I thought could help me out—Ruth Ellington. I told her I wanted to ask her for some advice and also to return the six thousand dollars that I had of hers and apologize.

She told me I had better come over to her office that afternoon and over my pride and called up the only woman that I thought could help me out—Ruth Ellington. I told her I wanted to ask her for some advice and also to return the six thousand dollars that I had of hers and apologize.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1878)

AN EFFECTIVE METHOD
The late J. G. Gunderson's proposed plan for a flat reduction of taxes by flat of law 35 per cent over the previous year has been much misunderstood and much abused. Mr. Gunderson, a keen business man and devoted to the state's welfare, never evolved or entertained a plan which he believed would stunt the growth and development of North Dakota institutions. This is made plain in an explanation by Vice-President A. L. Martin of the state taxpayers' association.

Mr. Gunderson believed that tax reduction must come. Many shared his belief, but did not know how to engage the public interest. Mr. Gunderson found the way by proposing a flat decrease so drastic as to attract comment and engage public discussion. He explained to the North Dakota Education Association here last fall that it was not intended to wreck the schools—his purpose was to pave the way for a searching inquiry into the possibilities of curtailment of unnecessary expense. As Mr. Martin now explains, Mr. Gunderson's idea was to enact a law which would provide a drastic cut but which would give the people an opportunity to increase the taxes beyond this limit by vote. This idea is incorporated in the present tax limitation law. It has the virtue of concentrating public attention upon the public financial problems and of restraining prodigal officials. Each time a tax limitation law has been enacted it has been predicted that it would wreck institutions, but they have not been wrecked.

The report of the state department and the old report of a survey made of North Dakota educational institutions under the direction of the Commissioner of Education of the United States lends strength to belief in the far-sightedness of Mr. Gunderson and the seriousness of the problems confronting the state.

It is shown that 43.74 cents of each dollar of state taxes collected goes to payment of an expense which did not exist prior to 1919. Of this 15.21 cents is applied on payment of state industrial bonds and 1.36 cents to the home building a provision deficit fund. To those persons who assert that North Dakota's experiments into the realms of government in business are not costly these figures are presented. One-sixth of the total state taxes thus goes to meeting interest on bonds issued for these new activities, and in future years when it is necessary to levy taxes to meet the principal of the bonds maturing the tax will be increased. It may be noted that under the "New Day" these industrial institutions were expected not only to yield a profit which would meet the interest on the bonds, but to pay the principal of the bonds and fill the state treasury with additional profits.

The federal investigators of our higher institutions of learning found much duplication. They found normal schools and universities teaching high school subjects, at great expense to the state and to the students who had better remained in their home towns to complete their high school education. Two engineering schools, it was found, are maintained in a state essentially agricultural. The investigators found duplication in other branches of our higher institutions of learning.

The educator who would supinely yield to public sentiment and see his institutions destroyed is not faithful to his task; but the educator who would seek to impose unnecessary scholastic burdens on a state is both blind to his true mission and forgetful of his state's welfare.

MODERN LIFE IS A LEMON SQUEEZER

The Twentieth Century Limited "burns up" an engine every 135 miles. That's all the "Century" can get out of a locomotive. After being speeded to the limit for 135 miles the engine is exhausted and the train has to stop while a fresh engine is hooked on. The worn-out locomotive is left behind for repairs.

This is a very clear-cut picture of modern life and the way it "wears out" all of us.

Our generation is almost insane in its desire for speed. At every turn the average man encounters people or situations or system existing for the sole purpose of speeding him up. In other words, the desire and purpose is to "burn him out" as fast as possible. Well, maybe that's not the desire. But it's the net result of the system.

Modern life is like the Twentieth Century Limited. Of course, 100 years from now it will not make any difference whether the passengers arrived at destination ahead of time or a week behind it. But we're living now, not 100 years hence, and so we're all victims of the system.

Business is a lemon squeezer. Get the juice, get it fast, then throw the remains of the lemon away and reach for a new lemon.

This system of taking a man and burning him up quickly is as bad for his employer as for the man himself, because the available supply of men worth burning up is limited, the same as there is a limited supply of engines capable of hauling the Twentieth Century.

Wise employers, men with perspective, realize this.

FIRST ADVERTISERS

The newspapers of Abraham Lincoln's day were small, usually four pages. They had very little advertising. Ask grandpa. He'll recall that old-time advertising was limited to classified ads. And most of these were the publicity of patent medicine firms or companies that had unusual services or devices for sale.

It took real courage by A. T. Stewart when he began running 10-line ads about bargains in his New York store, for advertising was a new device.

John Wanamaker bought Stewart out and "plunged" by inventing modern department store advertising.

This was a page in history. For, after all, the history of business is the history of America.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important questions and that the issues discussed in the press of the day.

THE PRESIDENT APPEALS TO THE PEOPLE

President Coolidge is trying to save the people from themselves. He appeals to them not to force their representatives in Congress to vote for huge appropriations which would crumple the country's prosperity.

Here Congress, threatening to sink the Administration's revenue bill and to substitute a bill which not only would keep capital in tax-exempt securities but would create a treasury deficit of $300,000,000. And at the same time here a series of appropriation bills which if they all pass, would increase the government's expenses by half a billion dollars a year and would force a tax increase instead of a tax reduction.

The absurdity of such appropriations is lined with the absurdity of the ramshackle tax bill which is being hammered together by the anti-Administration forces. The bill would put a premium on idle wealth and would defer the use of productive wealth. It would discourage initiative and tend still further to rob industry of necessary capital.

It does not adopt the Mellon plan for the repeal of various nuisance taxes. Whereas Mr. Mellon, for example, advocates the repeal of all taxes on admissions, this hedge-podge bill merely repeals the tax on admission up to 50 cents, thus favoring owners of movie theaters, few of which charge more than a half dollar.

And in the case of cigarettes the bill actually increases the excise. At present the tax is outrageously high, being 10 cents on a package of 20 cigarettes. The bill would raise this tax to 4 cents.

Despite this nuisance attitude on nuisance taxes, the catchwork bill would create a $300,000,000 deficit. And yet members of Congress have presented a series of appropriation bills which would add to the annual expense of the government as much as the total annual expenses before the war, exclusive of the costs of the Post office department and those expenses offset by revenue from postage.

President Coolidge knows that these bills have been presented not because members of Congress favor such huge expenditures, but because most of the members are yielding to pressure from various groups in their constituencies. The President knows, for example, that most of the men in Congress do not believe a soldiers' bonus bill is either right or expedient. He knows that though a few of the members in their hunt for votes, have been hurrying for a bonus bill ever since the war, the majority of the bonus advocates in Congress have been reluctantly pushed into their present position.

The bonus bill, although it is the "want of them all, is only one of the unnecessary appropriation measures which have been introduced. The President realizes that a enactment of this series of bills would wreck the budget system, which was established in order to prevent unnecessary expenditures.

The President believes that the passage of the $300,000,000 bonus bill and of other tax-cutting measures would result in a "leak" in taxes. He feels that such an increase would involve the country in an economic disaster. Accordingly the President of the United States calls upon the people of the United States to refrain from urging their Senators and Congressmen to vote for needless appropriations which are being advocated by various groups. The President calls upon the people to urge their Senators and Congressmen to vigorously oppose such class legislation. —Chicago Journal of Commerce.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

Ashland, Ohio,
Feb. 26, 1924.

Editor Tribune:

I am leaving for the Northwest in a few days. While my vote is being counted, I am anxious to get back to my bit toward cooling the nomination of Calvin Coolidge for reelection as President. I think that Henry Ford was right when he said: "The country is safe in his hands."

I would resent being called a pessimist but I tremble to think of our country being turned over to a series of radicals that seems to have lost sight of the essential elements that constitute good government; that seem to rate self aggrandizement above the perpetuity of our beloved country. Unless a halt is called in the near future and the course of empire changed the labors of the Fathers of the Republic will have been in vain and future generations will reap fruits little to their liking. Every true American says: "How to the line, let the chips fall where they may," but as the Cleveland Plain Dealer—a Democratic sheet—says, editorially, the oil scandal is not a party question, but a national one, and that every true statesman should forget party in the interest of good government. A truly sane suggestion is to hope that each and every voter in North Dakota will pause and become a true statesman instead of a follower of some "Pea-nut" politician. Should such a course be followed we will all, without exception, be proud of the great state in which we live.

Should such a thing happen the outside world will change its opinion of our fair state and quit giving expression to very uncomplimentary remarks regarding us.

While I have not had the opportunity of giving that initiated measure, the Farm Labor Lien Law, a close study, from this distance it has the appearance of being a very doubtful enactment and one that may be really harmful. It is to come a law. I think the cure will be worse than the disease. It cannot but have the effect of seriously impairing the credit of the farmer and prevent him from securing advances when he may most need them. What ever the result of the vote on this measure may be, when counted, I trust that it will manifest to the world a wisdom that will rebound to our credit and will not be to your disadvantage as a state.

Respectfully yours,
H. A. ARMSTRONG,
Hazelton, N. D.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN
PRESBOTT TO SYDNEY

DEAR SYD:
This has been the most devastating and hectic week I have ever spent in my life. I have never thought it could be possible that an average ordinary man—who at least does not think himself a double-dyed villain—could have as much worry and trouble over peculiarly personal affairs as I have lately.

I sent you the newspaper clippings on the billboard affair. Could anything have been more unfortunate for me? By what malignant fate the Acme company just at this time should get into a row with the billboard company beats me.

Of course, as usual, I had to be the goat. I did not dream that the particular billboard outside my apartment would have, the very day I complained of it, Paula Perier's name slapped across it in black letters.

Bill Gregory came to me and told me he thought I had been very foolish to make such an exhibition of myself over the sight of my old girl's name outside my window, and when I explained matters to him he laughed until I could have choked him easily and looked upon his grinning face as a burning brand.

I wrote a letter to Paula—because I knew that if I did not she would probably come to my office—and told her I would not be able to see her while she was in town. She would not have it that way at all. She sent me a very compromising telegram saying she must see me. Then, Syd, I capitulated, swallowed my pride and called up the only woman that I thought could help me—Ruth Ellington. I told her I wanted to ask her for some advice and also to return the six thousand dollars that I had of hers and apologize.

She told me I had better come over to her office that afternoon and intimate she would not see me under any circumstances if it were not for Leslie. I told her that it was for Leslie that I was asking her advice. She softened a little at this, but I could almost feel the cold air coming through the phone all during the interview. I was on needles and pins until it was time to go to her shop. In doing so I had to pass the Criterion Theater and, Syd, the line in front was nearly a block long, four abreast. Many of the people in the line knew me.

I think I suffered as did those people who had to go down through two lines of tortures and be mauled by them with sticks and stones. It was worse for me, however, because I could not run the gamut. I had to walk slowly and act as though I did not mind their curious faces.

I arrived at the lingerie shop door without mishap and was glad when it closed upon me, even though the reception I received was not any too cordial.

Clavering returned to his seat with no sense of the old chair's comfort, and she went on in a moment.

"The unfairness of it as I looked at that old witch in the glass that had reflected my magnificent youth, seemed to me unendurable. I had lived a virtuous and upright life. I knew damned well she hadn't. I had done my duty by the race and my own and my husband's people, and I had brought up my sons to be honorable and self-respecting men, whatever their failings, and my daughters in the best traditions of American womanhood. They are model wives and mothers, and they have made no weak-kneed concessions to these degenerate times. They bore me but I'd rather they did than disgrace me. Mary never even had one child, although her husband must have wanted an heir. I have lived a life of duty—duty to my family traditions, my husband, my children, my country, and to Society; she one of self-indulgence and pleasure and excitement, although I'm not belittling the work she did during the war. But noblesse oblige. What else could she do? And now, she'll be at it again. She'll have the pick of our young men—I don't know whether it's all tragic or grotesque. She'll waste no time on those men who loved her in her youth—some blame to her. Who wants to cold old men? They've all got something the matter with 'em."

But she'll have love—love—it not here—and thank God, she's not remaining long—then elsewhere and wherever she chooses. Love! I too once took a fierce delight in making men love me. It seems a thousand years ago. What if I should try to make a man fall in love with me today? I'd be rushed off by my terrified family to a padded cell."

Masons Give Delightful Dinner Dance

Nearly 250 were present at the largest and most successful party to be given this season by the Eastern Stars and Masons at the Temple last evening. The dinner was served at 7 o'clock during which Henry Halvorson led the guests in chorus singing. The quartette composed of Mrs. Frank Barnes, Mrs. D. C. Seothorn, Henry Halvorson and George Humphries sang Annie Laurie and Sonny of Mine to the delight of all.

Mrs. H. F. Keller, Mrs. W. W. Moyer, Mrs. Van R. Middlemas, Mrs. W. C. Bush, and Mrs. J. I. Setser, the committee from the Stars assisted the committee from the Masons composed of A. W. Gussner, Ray Bergeson, William Harris, Jessner Beck, Price Owens and Richard Hall in making arrangements for the dance. A number of novel features were introduced during the evening, so that surprises were experienced by guests during the entire dance program. One of the most interesting dances was the "Ladies choice" in which the ladies sought their partner with a lighted birthday candle.

Singing of some of the most popular dance songs led by Harry Wagner proved very popular as did the "Broom Dance" introduced during the evening. Jack McKenzie, who recently came here to join S. E. Bergeson & Son pleased the assemblage with selections on the harp in a Scottish costume and played "The Camels Are Coming" by special request. Later he danced the "Sword Dance" "Highland Fling" as solo dances.

Confetti and balloons were very much in evidence and gave the hall a strictly carnival air.

A number of the younger men who are taking the degree work of the Masons very ably acted as ushers and assisted in waiting table in waiters uniforms. These were: A. R. Brooks, W. F. Gettleman, A. F. Bradley, Austin Reed, E. J. Budge, C. R. Simpson, F. L. Page, A. G. Bannier, R. W. Henderson and Mr. Wright. The girls, who so ably assisted in serving were: Louise and Dorothy Keller, Phyllis Rosen, Velma Nupen, Marys Lehr, Dorothea Savage, Winifred Halford, Ruth and Sarah Rubin and Clarice Belk. Only highly complimentary remarks were heard concerning the dinner and appointments under supervision of Mrs. E. J. Schultz, Mrs. J. I. Setser, Mrs. E. E. Spohn, Mrs. W. G. Olgerson, Mrs. F. E. McCurdy, Mrs. G. Olgerson, Mrs. C. F. Moody, Miss Osterlander, Josephine Kositsky, Esther Schultz, Exine Schultz, and other members of the order.

The next dance to be given by these organizations is scheduled for March 21.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL
Of more than passing interest is the motion picture, "The Common Law," which is a screen adaptation of Robert W. Chambers' famous novel of the same name. Co-starring are Corinne Griffith, Conway Tearle and Elliott Dexter, while an exceptional supporting cast includes Doris May, Robert Bosworth, Miss du Pont, Bryant Washburn, Phyllis Haver, Harry Myers and Wally Van. The story of "The Common Law" is really that of Valerie West, a sweet and rather unsophisticated young girl who, suddenly thrown upon her own resources, sets out to earn her living, but with no tangible idea as to what she is best fitted to undertake.

"The Common Law" opens a two days' engagement at the Capitol Theatre on Monday.

SOME GOOD BREADS

WHEN good buttermilk is to be obtained there is no better hot biscuit, unless it is sour cream, that can be served.

Buttermilk Biscuit.—Sift four and one-half cups of flour with a half-teaspoonful of baking powder, one and one-half cups of salt, one teaspoonful of soda. Mix two table-spoonsful of lard and add two cups of rich buttermilk. Knead until smooth, roll to half an inch in thickness, cut with a small cutter and bake five minutes in a hot oven. Serve piping hot.

Bacon Muffins.—Cut half a pound of sliced bacon into bits and fry until crisp. Cream two table-spoonsful of sugar; add one well-beaten egg and one and one-half cups of milk. Mix five table-spoonsful of baking powder with three-fourths of a teaspoonful of salt and two and one-half cups of flour, stir into the mixture and fold in the fried bacon. Pour into greased muffin pans and bake twenty-five minutes in a hot oven.

Butter Cakes.—Sift twice three cups of flour, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, then mix lightly with enough sour or butter milk to moisten—about one cupful of milk. Turn out on a floured board and knead lightly. Roll thin and cut into large rounds. Bake on a well-greased griddle, turning frequently to insure even browning. They will cook in eight minutes. Tear them apart and drop a piece of butter into each cake. Wrap in a napkin and serve at once. Served with a dish of fresh berries, these cakes are delicious.

Orange Drops.—Beat the yolks of three eggs until light, add one cupful of sugar, the juice and rind of half a lemon. Sift one cupful of pastry flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Add to the egg mixture, beat well. Chill for half an hour on ice. Break off in pieces the size of a walnut and bake ten minutes in a hot oven on a well-greased baking sheet.

LAUNDRY DISCOVERIES

WHEN ironing lace, embroidered garments or bedding or any kind of initials or hand work, have a piece of an old Turkish towel fastened to one end of the ironing-board to lay these pieces on.

Heavy, well-made laundry baskets are expensive, but bushel baskets may be bought for a few cents and two or three of them kept just for the clothing. They are light, easy to carry and one may have as many as convenient.

When re-covering your ironing board use two thicknesses of cotton batting, if you haven't an old blanket to pad it.

When sending handkerchiefs to the laundry fasten them to a strip of tape and they will always come back together. The ironing is but a few moments' work.

With a small line on the piazza for hanging small things and baby clothes, the doll clothespins are just the size to hang them firmly on the cord.

When drying a washed sweater in winter lay it on a cloth on a window screen; place on two chairs over a hot air register. Lay the sweater so that it will dry in its original form (flat in the back and the fullness in front) pulling out the sleeves to make them roomy.

In cold weather when hanging out clothes mittens are unhandy and the fingers get numb so quickly. Try heating the clothespins in the oven until good and hot—this will keep the hands warm and hurry the hanging process.

Sprinkle clothes with hot water and they may be ironed within a few minutes.

Net curtains may be washed, slipped onto a rod top and bottom and hung to dry. They will dry perfectly straight and even. Pull the heading with the fingers when nearly dry and they will look as if they had been carefully stretched.

Add a bit of paraffin to the boiled starch when making it. This will keep it from sticking to the iron. Always save all bits of a broken paraffin from jelly glasses, place the size of a small bean is sufficient for two quarts of starch.

New York, Mar. 1.—In no other art has woman come to the front with more consistent success than in the field of playwriting.

Five years ago a woman playwright with a show on Broadway was the exception. Today the street is full of them.

Probably no other play has attained the commercial success of "Abie's Irish Rose" written and produced by Anne Nichols. The box receipts in New York alone, where it is now in its nineteenth week and has the longevity record, have gone past the million mark and it is still going strong. So are the seven road companies.

The book and lyrics of "Poppy," which has been running for months and is one of the outstanding successes of the season, are the work of Dorothy Donnelly, who was responsible also for "Hosanna Time."

Lulu Vollmer has two Broadway attractions of exceptional merit to her credit, "The Shame Woman" and "Sun Up." Two years ago she was unknown, selling tickets at the box office of the Theater Guild. Today she is recognized as one of the most promising playwrights of our day, as original in her field as Eugene O'Neill is in his.

The most popular mystery show of the present time is "In the Next Room" the work of Eleanor Robison and Harriet Ford. Nan Barbey Stephens is the author of a distinctly original production, "Roseanne," which has weathered the experimental stage and has "taught on."

"Lollipop," one of the most recent musical comedies to open, which caught the public fancy at once, is the work of Zella Sears, who has done many of Mitzel's scripts.

Julia Chandler and Althea Luce are testing their wings as dramatists in a new play called "The Gift," opening at the Greenwich Village Theater. Clara Krimmer made the adaptation of "Ta Bouche," the French musical comedy which is "One Kiss" on Broadway, and Anita Loos collaborated with her husband, John Emerson, in the comedy, "The Whole Town's Talking."

Olga Petrova is the author of "Hurricane," in which she is appearing.

On the whole, women have made an excellent showing this season. Politics may not extend to them the eager hand of fellowship, but the theater grants them equal rights and privileges.

BLACK SATIN COAT
A smart black satin coat for spring is very straight as to line, a large monogram in black satin on the left front, and with ermine collar and cuffs.

PIN TUCKS
Groups of pin tucks following the hem line and sometimes appearing half-way up the skirt are popular ways of trimming the flannel or silk sport skirt.

Bright handkerchiefs are still being worn as scarfs, especially in connection with sports costumes. They either lie loosely from the

The Future a Promise

The future holds a promise for the people of North Dakota. The deflation period has passed its peak here. The state has not lost its capable men. Those credits that were built on an unsound basis have collapsed and are being charged off. The change from the old single crop system to mixed or diversified farming is rapidly being accomplished.

All this tends toward the establishment of business on a sounder basis.

The First National Bank will cooperate in every way possible in this development. Any condition which benefits its customers benefits this bank.

EVERY BUSINESS MAN'S GREATEST OBLIGATION

By WALTER W. HEAD
President of the American Bankers Association

We speak reverentially of "Our Country." What do we mean? Are we thinking of the service which we owe to our country, of the love which we bear for it, or are we thinking only of the protection which our country can afford us, only of the benefit which we may derive from it? Are we thinking of what we may do for our country, or of what our country may do for us?

Our duty to ourselves and our country requires positive as well as negative action. We must be constructive. As citizens of our country, do we fulfill the obligations incumbent upon us? Do we exercise our right to vote—and when we do, do we always place intelligence, efficiency and patriotism in government ahead of every other consideration?

FOOT, MOUTH DISEASE FOUND IN CALIFORNIA

Washington, March 1.—After several years freedom from foot-and-mouth disease the infection has appeared in the United States, this time in California. It is now the prime duty and privilege of livestock owners to fully cooperate with state and federal officers in the quarantine and slaughter of affected and exposed animals, in the disinfection of infected premises and in all other measures essential for checking the spread of the disease and accomplishing its eradication, says a bulletin of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

If a condition suspicious of the disease, such as vesicles (blisters) in the mouth or on the feet develops among any cattle, sheep or swine, the owner should immediately notify his state veterinarian or the nearest inspector of the Bureau. Pending arrival of an official veterinarian, the owner of suspicious stock will as a matter of course close his place to all visitors and with his family and help refrain from visiting other farms, the circular says.

If the animals are found by the inspector to be affected with foot-and-mouth disease all stock on the premises, including horses, will be carefully confined and all dogs be prohibited from running at large. No animals are to be received on or shipped from the place or moved across any highway, and no milk, hay, feed, or manure is to be removed from the farm. It should be borne in mind that the curiosity of neighbors to see affected animals or their well meant desire to be helpful may result in infection of their own farms and further dissemination of the disease. There must be close adherence to all the necessary quarantine requirements until all susceptible animals have been slaughtered and cleaning and disinfection of the premises have been accomplished.

Mrs. George H. Wilson returned Thursday evening from Northfield, Minn., where she had been for the past week, called by the injury of her daughter, Miss Margaret Gipson, who is a student at Carleton college. At a party some one moved a chair from which Miss Gipson had risen for a moment, and when she moved to resume her seat went to the floor receiving a severe injury to her spine. She was taken to a hospital where she has been confined since although now rapidly recovering.

ENGINEER POISONED

Theodore Shebosky, well known engineer is reported in a critical condition in the Northern Pacific hospital at Glendive. He was taken ill a week ago, having eaten something which poisoned his system.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

Funeral services for the late John Zachmeier who died Thursday were held this morning at St. Joseph's church at 10 o'clock.

INTERESTED IN FESTIVAL

Much interest is being taken in local musical circles in the annual Music Festival and Convention of North Dakota Federation of Music clubs which will be held April 8, 9, 10 at Grand Forks.

Jan Paderewski, world famous pianist, will appear on the evening program of April 8 and an unusual program is being arranged for the balance of the three-day session, according to announcements made yesterday by Mrs. W. H. Stutsman of this city who is state recording secretary of the N. D. Music clubs. Mrs. Stutsman and Mrs. M. Morris, chairman of the seventh district will attend the session and expect to have a large delegation from Mandan make the trip to Grand Forks to hear Paderewski.

SWIFT IS OUT, PENDING DECISION ON NEW TRIAL

Hettinger, N. D., Mar. 1.—A new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence, will be asked by Joseph Swift, convicted in district court here of second degree manslaughter in connection with the shooting and killing of Howard Smith, at Selfridge in 1919.

He made this announcement today upon filing a $7,000 bond required in connection with granting of a four months stay of execution of the five year term in the penitentiary imposed by the jury. He stated that if a new trial is refused by Judge H. L. Berry, trial judge, he will appeal to the state supreme court.

SEEKS WILD ANIMALS

Devils Lake, N. D., March 1.—Superintendent Parker of Sully's national park has asked the Civic and Commerce association to assist him in locating new stock for the park. He is particularly interested in adding to the herd of deer and is anxious to get a couple of white tail deer and a buck. He also wants a pair of swans and a pair of Canadian geese.

The secretary of the Civic and Commerce association has written a number of letters in the effort to locate such stock or birds for Mr. Parker, asking that any information relative to where purchase can be made, be forwarded to either the association or directly to Mr. Parker.

WHY CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING?

BECAUSE With years of cooperative marketing evolution a system has been created that is economically sound and successful as proved by the fruit, cotton, tobacco and other commodity marketing organizations.

BECAUSE The spread between producer and consumer is far too wide and too many middlemen exact a toll out of the product of your labor.

BECAUSE With your cooperative marketing in control of the commodity you are afforded the same opportunity to realize a profit plus cost of production that the highly organized business corporation has.

BECAUSE Owing to the imperative need of money 70% of the farmers are forced to dump their wheat on the market in two months of the year and with the market thus glutted the buyer buys your product at his own figure. No manufacturing corporation could long withstand such a condition were it to market its product in a similar manner.

BECAUSE The buyers of your products have created a system that is considered nothing short of marvelous in fulfilling its aim of paying you as little as possible and netting them as much as possible in marketing your wheat. You are NOT defenseless—cooperative marketing is a way out.

On Farmers ALONE Depends Success of all Co-operative ENTERPRISES

Business Men Have Shown Approval, But Basis Rests on Farm

There is much ado, these days, about the support being given Co-operative Marketing by bankers and business interests. Many conferences are being held at which representatives of city business step forward and testify to their faith in the marketing movement, and urge its adoption by the growers of products which have not yet been "organized." This is all very well done, and the result is bound to be good. But it must not cause anyone to lose sight of the one real factor, the one which will bring success or cause failure, the farmer himself. Unless Co-operative Marketing organizations can prove their worth in the eyes of the producers, all the endorsements of all the business men between the two seas will mean nothing.

Wheat Growers Can Do This If THEY Will

The Marketing Association is now actually selling wheat. The thing for all growers to do is to get on the INSIDE and help their own organization to function as nearly 100 per cent as possible. THAT IS JUST COMMON EVERY-DAY BUSINESS SENSE.

A nation-wide membership campaign is just being put under way, designed to secure at least two-thirds of the wheat produced in the twelve largest wheat states, prior to July 1st, 1924.

Officers of the AMERICAN WHEAT GROWERS' ASSOCIATION point out that machinery for the marketing of this huge bushelage is now available in the eight domestic sales offices in the Northwest and Pacific coast.

This space is donated by the following business men of Bismarck—who offer every assistance and co-operation to the farmers of this community in organizing to get a cost plus-a-fair profit price for their wheat.

DODGE SPECIAL ATTRACTS MANY

No better illustration of the popularity of Dodge Brothers cars could be had than the crowds that are visiting the Special Automobile Show that is now being given by M. B. Gilman Co. at 212 Main Street, where the entire line of open and closed cars is on display.

The Special Touring Car with its Balloon Tires and all the special equipment is attracting an unusual amount of attention. This car is just being put out by Dodge Brothers, and is so recent a type that it was not even shown at the recent Minneapolis Automobile Show.

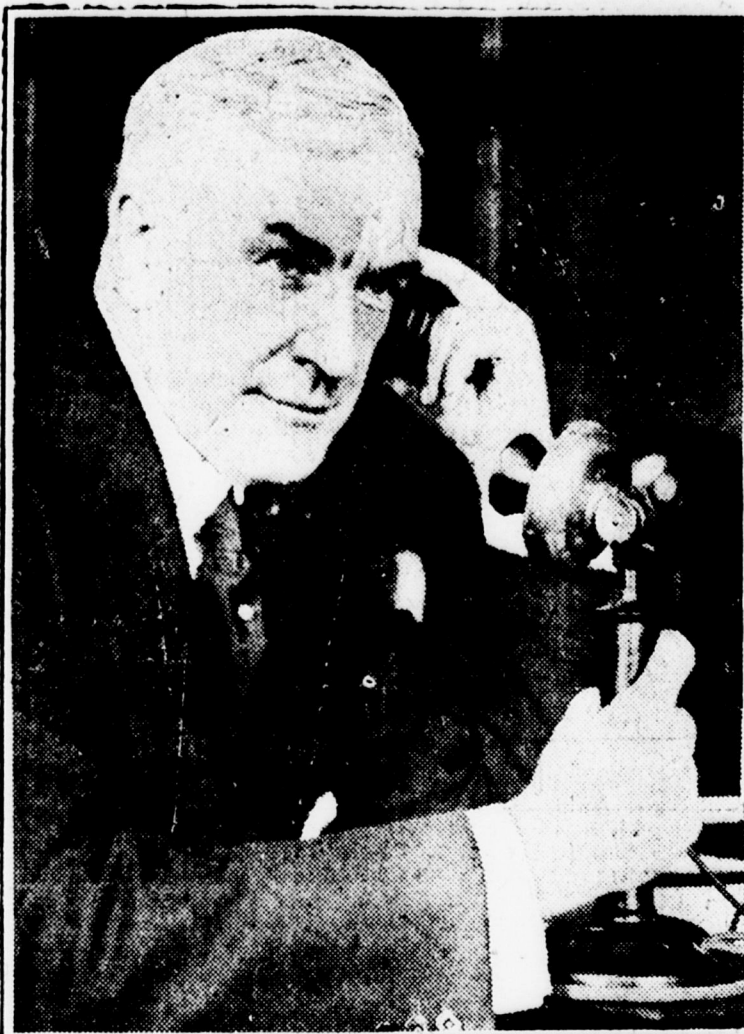

The very latest addition to Dodge Brothers line, the 4 passenger Coupe, has had a most enthusiastic reception. Its beautiful body lines, and general convenience appeals particularly to the owner who wishes a car to comfortably accommodate 2, 3 or 4 people.

This Special Automobile Show is still open and will continue until 9:00 o'clock tonight. Many people are visiting this show in the evening as this affords more time to spend in more carefully looking over the seven or eight different types on exhibition.

Automobile Prices Going Up

The past thirty days a number of the leading automobile factories

FROM BELGIUM TO ITALY

Henry P. Fletcher, who has been U. S. ambassador to Belgium, will take over the post of ambassador to Italy, succeeding Washburn Child.

have been forced to increase prices. This is not surprising as the dollar today is worth $1.50 in purchasing a car, compared with other commodities. Automobile factories have cut profits to the bone to further sales.

A Tribune representative in talking with the Corwin Motor Company today, was told that tremendous increase in Chevrolet production, now amounting to 3000 cars a day, had made it possible to keep the present low prices in effect. Chevrolet is the largest unit of the General Motors Corporation, and two other units of this organization have been forced to raise prices during February. The Chevrolet factory has just suggested to their dealers that they tell their customers that it is probable that there will be an increase in prices in the near future.

Good Dealer Remains Car Owner's Best Bet

"Passing seasons serve only to emphasize the fact that the backbone of car performance in any community is the good dealer," says W. E. Lahr, of the Lahr Motor Sales Co.

"There is food for thought in the fact that millions of finely adjusted and complicated machines are operating consistently under difficult conditions of duty, hundreds and thousands of miles from the factories in which they were made.

"Inevitably, car performance is always better in the community where the greatest measure of real dealer responsibility exists. And the dealer who fails to adequately meet the local needs of the cars he sells is shirking an obligation to his home town."

ILLEGAL CONVICTIONS IN S. D. Pierre, S. D., March 1.—Many illegal convictions for the sale of intoxicants in South Dakota under the provisions of chapter 246, section laws of 1919, which was later repealed by referendum, have taken place, according to a statement today from the secretary of state. The error is believed to have been caused by the failure of the publishers to have the referendum vote incorporated in legal reference works.

BONUS BILL IS TAKEN UP

Measure Expected to be Reported Within Week

Washington, March 1.—The soldier bonus bill was taken up by the house and means committee today and given a clear slate for immediate consideration.

The committee voted to open a three-day hearing Monday and then proceed with preparation of a re-drafted bill. Chairman Green said he expected the measure to be reported by next Saturday.

New York, March 1.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows an excess in reserve of $222,057,510. Reserve increased $270,060,860.

POSTMASTER NAMED Dickinson, N. D., Mar. 1.—Appointment of William H. Lenneville as postmaster at Dickinson for a second term was on Tuesday confirmed by the senate. Notice of the confirmation was received by Mr. Lenneville.

early the following day in a telegram from Congressman J. H. Sinclair. The term is for four years, dating from January 23, of the present year, the date on which the first term of Mr. Lenneville expired.

Coast Guard Given Money in Booze Fight

Washington, March 1.—Appropriation of $153,696,567 was recommended today by the house appropriations committee to enable various government departments to wind up the fiscal year without deficit.

The individual items include: $12,530,622 to enable the Coast Guard to recondition 20 destroyers and buy 223 fast motor boats for use against rum runners.

MAY REDUCE DUTY Ottawa, March 1.—A reduction in the Canadian duty on agricultural machinery is probable, in the opinion of members of parliament who heard Governor General Byng's speech from the throne today emphasizing the need for lower costs in the "instruments of production in industries" based on Canada's natural resources.

OLSON HEADS UNDERTAKERS Grand Forks, N. D., March 1.—Oscar Olson of Kenmare, was elected president of the North Dakota Funeral Directors association at the closing session of the annual convention.

Other officers include: David Johnson, Park River, first vice president; A. O. Johnson, Mayville, second vice president; Nellie M. Price, Langdon, secretary and L. E. Lester, Wahpeton, treasurer.

SEIZE LIQUORS

New York, Mar. 1.—One hundred and thirty eight bottles of ale and a keg of beer were seized by treasury agents last night in the store rooms of the White Star Line Olympic, which arrived last Tuesday. Last week, 3,900 bottles of ale and spirituous liquors were seized on the Adriatic, of the same line.
